You'll Get them BEST AT GOWING'S.

WET OR FINE YOU WANT AN OVERCOAT.

It is just as well to be provided early in the season, for two pretty good reasons.

1st.—You will get the best selection of fresh, fashionable goods—for "first come, first served" is as true as that "the early bird catches the worm"; and

2nd.—It is well to be provided early, because of the peculiar character of the climate at the ushering in of winter. The days are fairly warm, but the nights get cold very quickly, and a warm Overcoat going home at night is a safeguard as well as a luxury.

A glance through the following list will show you how well equipped we are to serve you. The Stock is LARGE, VARIED, FASHIONABLE, and FRESH. We don't carry old stocks; everything is New and Up-to-date.

In materials you will find all the latest designs and colourings, the newest and most fashionable shades.

DARK GREYS, FANCY STRIPED MIXTURES, AND SCOTCH HOMESPUNS.

THE "AUSTRAL," fancy striped mixtures, vertical pockets 21, 25/.

THE "TALBOT," fancy striped mixtures, all shades, vertical pockets 30/.

THE "RUTLAND," newest shapes, clerical grey, light and dark shades, plain collar, gauntlet cuff, and vertical pockets 35/.

THE "ROSEBERRY" OVERCOAT, vertical pockets, centre vent, gauntlet cuffs 40/.

THE "KENILWORTH" OVERCOAT, dark grey stripes, or fancy mixtures, the latest designs 45/.

THE "WOLESELEY," dark grey and newest stripes, full skirt, vertical pockets, gauntlet cuffs; a nobby coat 50/.

THE "NEWEST" in fancy Scotch Homespun, patch pockets with flaps, unlined throughout, a very fine overcoat in latest London style 55/.

For further particulars and full descriptions, illustrations, and prices, see OUR SPECIAL OVERCOAT CIRCULAR, which we will mail to you, post free, on application.

Our prices are based on our large turnover. We could scarcely pretend to sell with any reasonable profit for ourselves at such figures did we not rely on getting rid of our whole stock during the ensuing season.

A SEQUEL TO "SOPRANO" AND "PRIMA DONNA."

BY F. MARION CRAWFORD.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

The Primadonna was still looking out of the window when the door opened and her English maid appeared on the threshold. Margaret turned at the sound.

"What is it?" she asked, quietly.

"There's Mr. Van Torp's man, ma'am," answered Potts, "and he wants to speak to his master at once."

"You had better tell him to come up," Margaret answered. "You may just as well see him here without going all the way downstairs," she said, turning to Van Torp.

"You're very kind, I'm sure," he replied; "but I think I'd better be going, anyway."

"No, don't go just now," said Margaret. "I want to see you. See your man here while I go and speak to Mrs. Rushmore. Send Mr. Van Torp's man up, Potts," she added, and left the room.

The American walked up and down alone for a few moments. Then he opened the door and was ushered in by the maid, and the door was shut again.

"Well," inquired Mr. Van Torp. "Has anything happened?"

"Yes, sir," Stemp answered. "They have turned us out of the building, sir, and your luggage is in the street. Where shall I have it taken, sir?"

"Oh, they've turned us out, have they? Why?"

"Well, sir, I'm afraid it's partly my fault, but there must be some misunderstanding. I'm quite sure I didn't whistle in your room, sir."

"So am I, Stemp. Quite sure. Go on, what happened?"

"Well, sir, you hadn't been gone more than ten minutes when somebody knocked and there was the landlord, if that's what he calls himself, and a strange German gentleman with him, who spoke English. Rather shabby-looking, sir, I thought him. He spoke most unbecomingly, and said I was driving him half crazy with my whistling. He said I was a nuisance, and he said I had, and the landlord talked German at me, as if I were, sir, I said I hadn't whistled, and he said I was a shabby gentleman, I mean, speaking most unbecomingly, sir, I assure you. So when I saw that they doubted my word, I put them out, and fastened the door, thinking this was what you would have ordered, sir. If you'd been here yourself, but I'm afraid I was wrong."

"Thank you, sir."

"I suppose, though, that when you put them out they didn't exactly want to go, did they?"

"No, sir, but I had no trouble with them."

"Any heads broken?"

"No, sir, I was careful of that. I sent the landlord packing with a good deal of force, and not likely to hurt himself, and the shabby German went down on top of him quite comfortably, so he did not hurt himself either. I was very careful, sir, being in a foreign country."

"What happened next? They didn't come upstairs again and throw you out, I suppose?"

"No, sir. They went and got two of these German policemen with swords, and broke into the room, and they were very angry at once. I didn't like to resist the police, sir. It's sometimes serious. The German gentleman wanted them to arrest me, so I went to pay any fine there was for having been noisy, and we settled for two sovereigns, which I thought dear, sir, and I'd have gone to the police station rather than pay it, only I knew you'd need me, sir. I'm highly relieved to know that you approve of that, sir. But they said we must turn out, and I was obliged to go. They packed your things and got a porter, and he's standing over the luggage in the street, waiting for orders."

"Stemp," said Mr. Van Torp, "I'd been whistling myself, before you came in, and the music in the next room had already been fusing about it. It's my fault."

"And it will be my fault if we have to sleep in a cab to-night."

"Yes, sir. They've packed them. A word might be said, too, for the appointment of special representatives, with a knowledge of the conditions of real estate in the area in which they reside. This might save the council a great deal of trouble, as that where a council's value has been sworn that land is worth £30 per foot, and one of the city experts swears that, in his opinion, it is worth only £15 a foot."

"The assessor," said Mr. Van Torp, "they've just turned out of the office, and he's been some time whistling 'Paraphrase' out of tune."

"You didn't whistle it out of tune," Margaret answered, "but I know better. Please have your things brought here at once."

"Here!" repeated Mr. Van Torp, surprised in his turn. "I answered, in a tone that forestalled contradiction. 'If nothing else, I know you that you shall have your things brought here without it.'"

"You're kindness itself, but I couldn't do that," said Mr. Van Torp. "Bring your things to this hotel, anyway, Stemp, and we'll see what happens."

"Stemp disappeared at once, and his master went to Margaret's room. He was a small, dark, thin man, with a very small head."

"Knee-high to a kitten, certainly," replied the millionaire subaltern, "but I don't think I have plenty of room to spare."

"You're very kind, but—"

"That the mouse that ran into a tiger if you contradict it," she said with a light laugh that thrilled him with electric fire. He remembered her description of the Tartar girl."

"Well, then, I suppose the hyena will have to turn into a small woman, if you don't let him to," answered Mr. Van Torp.

"Yes," laughed Margaret. "A small woman, lamb at once, I mean, a very small one!"

"Knee-high to a kitten, certainly," replied the millionaire subaltern, "but I don't think I have plenty of room to spare."

It is pointed out that such severance as is made from North Sydney, and Vaucluse from Woollahra, have been thought necessary in the past, and it is argued that, as the Bay can fulfil all the conditions of a municipality, it ought to be duly constituted as one.

A LARGE QUESTION.

The question at issue in the dispute is a large one. Everywhere agitations are going on against the alienation of the harbour foreshores. It is realised that a mistake has been made in the past, and that the foreshores cannot be too severely denounced, in allowing the alienation of the foreshores of the harbour. It is further said that the men of the past, stung through ignorance and want of prophetic vision, which might have enabled them to see the future greatness and populousness of Sydney, but the crime is greater at the present time, when alienation is carried out in defiance of well-accomplished public security. But, admitting the justice of the case, the Bay people's claim, and remembering that they are fighting for a great principle, affecting everyone living on the Greater Sydney area, the question whether the best mode of curing the evil complained of is to agitate to add one more to the 43 shire and municipal councils on the metropolitan area, or to assist those who are striving to substitute one powerful council, representing the whole consensus of metropolitan opinion, in place of the small and necessarily powerless councils now existing, which will be rendered more fragmentary and less effective (except the health authorities). Further, by this constant tendency towards disintegration.

A BARBARIC SYSTEM.

It is surprising to find that a Public School on the metropolitan area, as near as Waterloo, the old cesspit system is still in use. This casts a reflection upon three Government authorities:—(1) The Education Department; (2) The Water and Sewerage Board; (3) The Health authorities. Further, it reflects upon the municipal council in whose area the school is situated. This Waterloo cesspit, like the discoveries made by the American troops in Manila and in Santiago de Cuba, is a disgrace to the city, and a source of danger to the health of the community. The methods of ascertaining values are set out in sections 123 et seq., and form a guide which could hardly be mistaken by a valuer of any experience of the real estate market in the area.

THE VALUERS.

The sections declare that the unimproved capital value is—viz., the amount for which the land would sell in the open market under reasonable conditions, and making certain allowances and assumptions arbitrarily set down. The value of a mine of coal or shale, of a mine of Crown land held on gold-mining, gold-dredging, or other mineral or mining lease, or mineral holding, a mine part of which is under the sea, as well as the improved capital value, are all set out arbitrarily, and few persons of ordinary experience could have any difficulty in correctly following the instructions of the Act. It is amazing, therefore, to find the wholesale reductions which have taken place in the valuations when the matter has come before the Appeal Courts.

VALUING IN THE FUTURE.

The councils in the future, it seems, must in many instances take greater care in the appointment of valuers. In suburban Sydney area it would seem the better course to call in the best expert valuers available; for Appeal Courts appeared to accept their valuation unquestioningly wherever it was at variance with those of the official valuers. It would appear that which appraises one block of land at £23 per foot, and the adjoining land at £2; the former being built on, and the latter vacant, and there being no other differences between them. A word might be said, too, for the appointment of special representatives, with a knowledge of the conditions of real estate in the area in which they reside. This might save the council a great deal of trouble, as that where a council's value has been sworn that land is worth £30 per foot, and one of the city experts swears that, in his opinion, it is worth only £15 a foot.

HIGHER RATES.

Possibly few people acquainted with municipal affairs were surprised at the increase of the rating over what it had been in the past; especially in the areas round Sydney has it been found necessary to raise the rates to meet the increased cost of the services. The council officers have been found to be in error. The council officers have been found to be in error. The council officers have been found to be in error.

THE STATUS OF OFFICERS.

The rise of the status and qualifications of municipal officers has been a matter of frequent comment in the British municipal journals of recent years. These officers are becoming more and more specialists as the councils are becoming more and more complex in their undertakings, and the conditions of real estate in the area in which they reside. This might save the council a great deal of trouble, as that where a council's value has been sworn that land is worth £30 per foot, and one of the city experts swears that, in his opinion, it is worth only £15 a foot.

BRIDGE OR TUNNEL.

The Royal Commission on the question of providing greater facilities for communication between the North Sydney and the city, continued its sittings at Parliament House yesterday.

G. H. Bener, general representative of the Norddeutscher Lloyd Company, said something should certainly be done to lessen the ferry traffic, but he could not see the bridge or tunnel could be better. He knew that some of the tunnels in New York had cost a great deal more than was anticipated.

THE SOLOMON ISLANDS.

MEETING OF THE NEW COMPANY.

The first meeting of the shareholders of the recently-formed Solomon Islands Development Company, Limited, was held yesterday at the office of Burns, Philp, and Co., Ltd., in the City.

The chairman of the company, Colonel J. Burns, in addressing the meeting, said that the company was progressing smoothly and satisfactorily. The shareholders closed with 200,000 capital, which was ample for all present requirements. Application and allotment money, totalling £10 per share, had been promptly paid. The company had been paid in full for the purchase of 15,000 acres of land, inclusive of the Manning Island property. Not one penny had been paid in brokerage or commission, and everything had been handed over at actual cost. The first call of £10 per share, to be made in September next, would provide a working fund for the first year's development work. The lease of 10,000 acres on Guadalcanar had been approved by his Excellency the High Commissioner for the Western Pacific for a term of 99 years, at a satisfactory rental, and arrangements would at once be made for the erection of buildings and the commencement of planting operations. This plantation would be devoted solely to coconuts, with bananas as an interim crop. The island of Tetepari, containing about 25,000 acres, was being cleared and planted with coconuts. The shareholders hoped before the end of the year to be actively exploiting them. The partially developed property at Manning Island had been taken over, and about 50 native labourers were at work clearing and cultivating. Within three months about 500 labourers should be at work there. At present there were about 100 acres under coconuts, and a small area under rubber and other plants. About 20 acres, exclusively available for rubber, were ready cleared, and 10,000 young para rubber plants were due here to-day from Ceylon, for shipment to the Morobay, sailing for the Solomons on Thursday next. The island manager, Mr. Lucas, would sail with the vessel to inspect the various properties and organise the working department to arrange for the commencement of the Guadalcanar plantation, and to examine the timber forests on Tetepari. Mr. W. S. Campbell, late director of Agriculture in New South Wales, and a shareholder of this company, would accompany him on a holiday trip, and had kindly promised to give Mr. Lucas the benefit of his skilled advice. Negotiations were also proceeding with the Government of the Solomons for the purchase of the island of Tetepari. An initial shipment of 10,000 bananas aboard the Morobay, by the steamer Sava, was expected to arrive on Tuesday, and would go forward by the Morobay. A cursory plot of 25 acres had already been provided for the main plantation on Guadalcanar was ready, so that no time might be lost when the main plantation on Guadalcanar was ready, some months ago. It was anticipated that the progress could be made with planting on this block. Buildings had to be erected, labourers recruited, and land cleared and burned off before planting could commence. Initial difficulties and delays might be expected in the earlier stages of the enterprise, but, so far, the directors saw nothing to cause them any anxiety or any modification of the estimates submitted in the company's prospectus.

Mr. Gullitt, in moving a vote of thanks to the chairman, remarked that the shareholders were perfectly satisfied and had every confidence in the directors.

HOSPITAL NURSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Under the above heading in the "Herald" of May 29 you refer to the death of my daughter, who was admitted to the Bowral Hospital, and also on the following day you published a statement made by the matron of the hospital. Your comments, which have been designated by the matron of the Bowral Hospital as a "tissue of lies," are so far as the facts are concerned, in the main correct, with the exception that the daughter was not admitted to the hospital on the night before she died, but she was on duty, and tried to do some work at the hospital on the night before she died. The matron of the hospital, who was on duty on the night of the death, stated that she had been on duty on the night of the death, and that she had been on duty on the night of the death.

With reference to the statement of the matron of the hospital, who was on duty on the night of the death, I have no objection to her statement, but I have no objection to her statement, but I have no objection to her statement.

POWELL'S BALSAM OF ANISEED.

FOR EIGHTY YEARS POWELL'S BALSAM HAS BEEN THE ONE SAFE AND RELIABLE REMEDY FOR COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, AND ALL LUNG AND THROAT TROUBLES.

READ THE FOLLOWING PROOF OF ITS EFFICACY:—

Mr. THOS. SHELTON, 18 Crown-st., Oxford, writes:—"If the value of 'POWELL'S BALSAM OF ANISEED' was better known, many who suffer with Coughs, Bronchitis, and other Lung Troubles would do as I have done for upwards of 50 years. I take that when nothing else will give relief. One or two bottles invariably set me up. I have several times given a bottle to suffering friends, and it has had the desired effect. I have had three attacks of Bronchitis since January last, and two or three bottles had the desired effect when all else failed. You may make what use of this you like."—December 11, 1907.

Mrs. R. W. BAILEY, 32 Manville-road, Balham, London, E.W., writes:—"I may add that I recommend your BALSAM after 12 years' constant use, and my father, who was a chemist at Loughborough, N.E., and Warminster, Wilt., for 35 years, was a staunch believer in its merits, and always recommended it to his customers."—January, 1908.
